The Healing Power of Hydrotherapy.

You know the feeling when your muscles are tired or aching, and how relaxing it can be to bathe in a spa tub? Well if you suffer from some form of arthritis or other chronic pain, you should know Interspa tubs can ease much of your discomfort and bring you mental relaxation, every day.

Hydrotherapy is the treatments of illness and injury through the use of water. Hydrotherapy treatments help your body get rid of toxins that may be causing joint pain and inflammation, help relax muscles, and help relieve pressure on joints and bones. It also relaxes you, both mentally and physically.

Used to treat common ailments like muscle cramps, muscle weakness, diabetes, circulatory diseases, arthritis, osteoarthritis, back pain, muscle, bone and connective tissue injuries, balance disorders, and stress and stress-related disorders, hydrotherapy is fast becoming a popular and beneficial home health treatment, especially among seniors. But always consult your physician first.

How it works...

Warm and cold baths alike create certain reactions in your body tissues that help lessen pain and discomfort and improve the healing process according to some researchers.

Warm baths open up your capillaries (the small blood vessels in your body that are closest to tissues) which leads to increased blood flow and circulation, helping your body oxygenate and heal tissue better and get rid of toxins faster. Heat also slows down your internal organs, and is good at lessening certain types of aches and pains. Heat increases the production of beneficial body hormones, and stimulates the immune system. Warm, moist air from a hot bath can help open up congested or constricted airways in your lungs, throat and sinuses as well as benefit conditions such as Insomnia, Diabetes & RLS.
